

Stephen M. Clayton, Jr., MD earned his medical degree from the University of Oklahoma College of Medicine in Oklahoma City in 2014. Upon graduation, he performed his neurology residency at the University of Oklahoma Health Science Center. Board certified in neurology, Dr. Clayton is an assistant professor with OU's Department of Neurology, with an emphasis on headaches and migraines. On top of being an assistant professor, he is the Department of Neurology's Elective & Externships Program Clinical Clerkship Co-Director and the Program Neurosciences INDT 8272 Course Associate Director.