

Douglas C. Nolan, DO is a 2000 graduate of the Oklahoma State University College of Osteopathic Medicine. Dr. Nolan completed a Family Practice Residency at Oklahoma State University in 2003. Dr. Nolan served as the Cherokee Nation WW Hastings Hospital Medical Director from 2009 – 2016. He received the IHS National Director’s

Award in 2009 and the Thompson Award for Advancement of Healthcare in 2018. He currently serves as the Medical Director of the Cherokee Nation Diabetes Program. In addition, he serves as the Assistant to the Dean of Rural/Tribal Health for Oklahoma State University College of Osteopathic Medicine and the Program Director for the Northeastern Health System Family Practice Residency.