

Gitanjali Pai, MD, AAHIVS, FIDSA is an infectious disease (ID) physician practicing in Stilwell, Oklahoma. She is an Adjunct Clinical Assistant Professor of Rural Health - Internal Medicine/ Infectious Disease with the Oklahoma State University. She was recently appointed as Chief Medical Officer with the Oklahoma State Department of Health (OSDH). She is the ID expert for the Project ECHO COVID-19 service line for the state of Oklahoma. She is the ID expert for the AHRQ ECHO National Nursing Home COVID-19 Action Network for the Oklahoma Hub in collaboration with Oklahoma State University. She is also an ID expert for the Hepatitis C ECHO with OSU in collaboration with the Cherokee Nation, the HIV ECHO with OSU, and the ID ECHO with University of Oklahoma. Dr. Pai is an associate editor on the editorial board of The Oklahoma State Medical Association Journal. She serves on the editorial board of the “Infectious Disease News” publication.