

Latisha D. Heinlen, MD, earned her medical degree from the University of Oklahoma College of Medicine in Oklahoma City in 2008. She then performed her internal medicine residency and rheumatology fellowship at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center. Board-certified in rheumatology, Dr. Heinlen is dedicated to the diagnosis and treatment of a multitude of rheumatic and autoimmune diseases. A native of Laverne Oklahoma, Dr. Heinlen works directly with her patients to create a better quality of life through the management and treatment of these diseases. Dr Heinlen is involved in several national organizations and is constantly furthering her training and knowledge about rheumatic disease, treatment options and patient resources.