

Matthew B. Fowler, DO is an Oklahoma native who has been affiliated with Oklahoma State University since earning his undergraduate degree in Physiology. He earned his Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree in 2011 from the Oklahoma State University College of Osteopathic Medicine in Tulsa, OK. He then continued his education and OSU journey through a family medicine residency. Board-certified in family medicine, Dr. Fowler is a clinical assistant professor of the family medicine residency at OSU-CHS and OMECO.

When Dr. Fowler isn't saving lives and molding the minds of future physicians, he enjoys aerial silks and straps, acroyoga – he has performed several times with his wife. Dr. Fowler is also a Tulsa Kids Magazine 2020 finalist for Favorite Family Doctor.